

Big Ben

Post 4 - James Livingstone

It is arguably the most famous clocktower in the world. It is a popular symbol of British architecture and history. It has been featured in countless films and television shows from James Bond to Shanghai Knights.

I visited London in 2014 and it was my favorite building of all the ones i saw. It is situated right along next to the Houses of Parliament and the river Thames.

It is a spot that you won't want to miss when visiting London, England. It is built in Gothic Revival style and was completed in 1859.
