Out of all of all the significant buildings in my life, this one is the most modern. I think I like this building because I am drawn to more of an industrial style of architecture. I love the use of natural resources. In these pictures, a few things I like is the use of brick, wood, and natural light. This is where I also spent over 4 years going to appointments for braces, tightening. I will remember the last day the most. That was the day I got to remove my braces!! The feeling of not having those ugly, metal squares on my teeth is to this day immense. If it wasn't for the sacrifice from my parents to get me braces, I would not be as happy as I am today.
