

Maya Lin- Museum of Chinese Americans (4)

Maya Lin designed the museum of Chinese Americans in 2009 in New York City. Lin enjoyed designing this museum because she got to reflect on the past of Chinese Americans. She designed the main exhibition to be surrounded by brick walls with some windows. Her exhibit was a traditional Chinese American courtyard where immigrants used to tell stories out the window to each other and share the struggles of daily life as an immigrant. The windows in the exhibit have videos that talked about Chinese American History.
